POLICE DEPARTMENT

Preliminary 2006 Annual Report

Credit for gathering and posting this data goes to Operations Division Captain Tony Clark, Services Division Captain Charles Crumpler, Criminal Investigations Lieutenant Charles Pulley, Accreditation Manager Lieutenant Perry Twisdale and to the members of the Police Department's Records Division. Although this data accurately reflects all categories, an exact analysis and report cannot be issued until UCR statistics are verified by the State and subsequently are released in its annual summary report, which is not scheduled until mid-year 2007. Therefore, this report is termed "preliminary". This Preliminary 2006 Annual Report will be published on the Henderson Police Department's Internet web site and made available to the public.

Synopsis

The following is the Henderson Police Department's preliminary annual report on Part I (Index) Crimes. The data analyzed for this summary covers the period from January 1 through December 31, 2006

Henderson Police Department

The Henderson Police Department received 1,666 reports of Part I (Index*) Offenses in Calendar year 2006, an increase of 1.7 % from the 1,647 offenses in 2005.

The number of Property Index Offenses in 2006 decreased by 1.6% from the number reported in 2005. Violent Crime increased by 40.4%. Henderson Police investigated five (5) Murders in 2006.

The overall decrease in Property Index offenses was realized due to a 7 % decrease in Larceny (Theft) offenses.

For an explanation of how Summary-based Uniform Crime Reporting is scored and tabulated for statistical analysis, see Appendix A.

Conditions that Contribute to Crime

Henderson Police Department

Our community is very diverse, and Henderson's crime problems can best be understood by examining contributing factors that are unique to our area. The following information is significant from an analytical perspective:

1. Our local (often double-digit) unemployment rate consistently is among the highest in the state. Jobs have disappeared as manufacturing and textile facilities have closed down.
2. Compared to the country, the south, and NC, our community has a high poverty rate, higher even than other rural NC areas. The poverty rate is especially high for children under 17 and for single female heads of households. We have a higher percentage of single-parents (or grandparents) raising children than other parts of NC.
3. Henderson has a much larger percentage of rental properties and fewer owner-occupied homes than other areas of NC.
4. Median household income in Henderson is nearly $8,000 per year less than the state median.
5. Teen pregnancy and sexually transmitted disease rates are much higher than the state average.
6. Our adult population (over age 25) has a low educational attainment level. Only 17% have college degrees and 32% are without a high school diploma or GED.
7. The City of Henderson is not unique in the fact that the Police Department struggles with the issues associated with officer retention and lower than average starting salaries. During this fiscal year, the Department has requested funding for two positions that were removed from the budget last year. In retrieving those positions back into the ranks, this will enhance the overall reorganization efforts and the transition to Community Policing. Historically, the Henderson Police Department has become the training grounds for agencies such as the Highway Patrol and surrounding jurisdictions. The average salary ranges for officers is a direct causation associated with employees seeking employment with other agencies. Calls for service have increased by 2.5% over the past five years. The aforementioned socio-economic issues have a direct correlation to the increase in crime.

An assessment of our City's crime must begin with the understanding that different people will look at the same facts and reach very different conclusions. One can surely surmise that the crime rate is but a symptom of these and other serious social maladies.

Social, economic, and cultural problems in our city can be addressed with a comprehensive approach involving law enforcement and various community disciplines and diverse groups or organizations. The grassroots efforts of the Vance County Coalition Against Violence, the Vance Organization to Implement Community Excellence, the Juvenile Crime Prevention Council, Vance Granville Community College's outreach efforts, and renewed economic development initiatives (to name a few) offer hope for the future. These and other efforts such as the Weed and Seed Initiative, in coordination with local, state and federal resources, can have a positive impact upon our community and can help reduce crime in the long term.

Arrest information is collected for all Part I and Part II offenses. However, no attempt should be made to relate arrest figures to the number of crimes cleared, because arrest totals count all the offenders who have been arrested and all offenses charged - even if several offenders were involved in the commission of a singular offense. Therefore, arrest and clearance totals will be equal only by coincidence. A reduction in number of arrests may not necessarily reflect a commensurate reduction in crimes committed.

It should be kept in mind that arrest totals are indicative of the number of persons charged with the offense. A total of three arrests may represent the arrest of different people or the arrest of the same person on three different occasions.

Henderson Police Department

JUVENILE CUSTODY/CONTACT

The Police Department documents the handling of all persons less than 16 years of age who have committed an offense and have been identified (with probable cause) as the offender. Officers complete a "Juvenile Contact Report" when the circumstances are such that if a juvenile were age 16 or older, an arrest would be reported. For example, if a person less than 16 years of age is "handled" for committing an offense of Larceny (theft), the charge is reported a Larceny even though the offense committed is actually Juvenile Delinquency. Officers sometimes take a juvenile into custody for their own protection when the juvenile has committed no crime. Such occasions are not included in this report. The purpose of this report is to highlight the juvenile crime activity and not juvenile court activity (although it does relate to law enforcement referral activity, e.g. referral to juvenile court authorities or other community programs).

In 2005, Juvenile offenses charged again decreased compared to the previous year. However, the removal of the two officers formerly assigned as School Resource Officers at the county's Middle Schools (Eaton-Johnson Middle School and Henderson Middle School) may be a factor in this decrease as over 30% of the juvenile custody charges filed in the previous year were made by the School Resource Officers.

CITATIONS

Citations differ from arrests in law enforcement reporting. Citations are primarily issued to offenders charged with infractions or minor misdemeanors that do not require the signing or the posting of a bond (waiveable offenses). Citations are written for traffic violations, violations of ABC Laws (such as public consumption of an alcoholic beverage), trespassing under the Henderson City Code, and other minor violations that are not included in the UCR totals for a given year

In 2006, Henderson Police Department officers issued 2,293 citations.

TRAFFIC COLLISIONS

Investigation and reporting of traffic accidents consumes countless manpower hours. In 2006, Henderson Police investigated 637 traffic collisions. Several involved personal injury and one was fatal.

INTERNAL REVIEW AND INVESTIGATION OF COMPLAINTS

Total Number of Internal Reviews

Defensive Actions Reports:	54
Vehicle Pursuit Reports:	10

Citizen Complaints (From All Sources)

Supervisory Investigations:	18
Internal Affairs investigations:	2

Categories of Citizen Complaints

Use of force	5

Other Miscellaneous	9

ALL complaints from ALL sources are documented in writing and investigated. Of the 30,478 calls for service, including 6,982 traffic stops, 2,652 adult arrests, and 2,293 citations, the Henderson Police Department received ONLY 20 complaints in 2006.

Officers reported 54 encounters requiring Defensive Actions in 2006. Officers are required by departmental policy to complete an internal report for every occasion during which they have to use defensive actions, physical force or use their weapon to defend themselves, effect an arrest, respond to aggression or resistance, or perform some other lawful action.

Other statistical data of note for 2006 includes

Henderson Police officers conducted 6,982 traffic stops (18 vehicle pursuits).

The Department received 2,214 criminal process papers from the Clerks of Court (1,145 Orders for Arrest, 619 Warrants for Arrest, and 450 Criminal Summonses). Officers served 1,311 papers (591 Orders for Arrest, 426 Warrants for Arrest, and 294 Criminal Summonses). As of the time this report was prepared, 483 active criminal process papers are on file and remain to be served.

Henderson Police officers handled 30,487 individual calls for police services in 2006 (compared to 28,058 in 2005) and conducted 4,592 investigations.

Crime Reporting

The Henderson Police Department voluntarily participates in the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting program (UCR) by submitting monthly reports to the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigations. Through this voluntary program, and with the cooperation of participating agencies such as our own, the UCR program strives to ensure the production of a reliable and uniform set of crime statistics, from which a nationwide and statewide view of crime is possible. The North Carolina State Bureau of Investigations' (SBI) Division of Criminal Information (DCI) gathers data from participating law enforcement agencies throughout the state and forwards the UCR statistics to the FBI in UCR format.

Because of their seriousness and frequency, seven offenses comprise a Crime Index, which is used by law enforcement agencies throughout the nation to serve as indicators of crime experience within jurisdictions. These figures are intended to represent the volume of crime in Henderson, NC. Volume indicators do not represent the actual number of crimes committed; rather, they represent the number of offenses reported to law enforcement for each category. The Uniform Crime Reporting program (UCR) collects data on offenses known to law enforcement, and on persons arrested, to depict total crime and to provide data for administrative and operational use in addressing community problems. With respect to Murder, Rape and Aggravated Assault, the volume represents the number of actual victims known to law enforcement, while for Robbery, Burglary, Larceny – Theft, and Motor Vehicle Theft, the number of known offenses is represented.

When analyzing UCR statistics, the user of this information should guard against superficial agency-to-agency comparisons. Such direct comparisons, without taking into account the demographic differences between law enforcement jurisdictions, are misleading.

The underlying causes of crime are complex, and they resist simplistic "quick-fix" solutions. Crime is a community problem that requires law enforcement, citizens of the community, and other social institutions in the community to cooperatively form crime-specific strategies for resisting crime. We continue to bring the resources that are available to us to bear on specific criminal activities, within our operating and resource limitations.

To accept crime as a fact of life is an admission of defeat. Only through the establishment of short and long-term strategies and the assistance of the citizens can the community successfully resist crime problems in our neighborhoods. The identification of our community's crime patterns, through an examination of local crime experience, is a starting point. Thus, these crime statistics are a way of revealing to all of the people in our community just what we're up against.

Social and economic factors have an enormous impact on the nature and levels of crime in any particular community. The FBI, as part of the Uniform Crime Reporting system (UCR), lists a number of factors that affect the volume and type of crime:

- the size of the community and its population
- the density of its population
- how the population is composed
- stability of the population with respect to mobility and transience
- the prevailing economic conditions
- cultural conditions, such as educational, recreational, and religious characteristics
- climate
- effective strength of law enforcement agencies
- what law enforcement emphasizes in its administrative and investigative roles
- the policies of other components of the criminal justice system (prosecutors, courts, corrections, and probation)
- citizen attitudes towards crime
- how citizens report crime (how often, how quickly)

The majority of these factors are somewhat beyond the control of the police. However, the Police Department can play a major role in controlling "street crimes" - those that occur in public places (e.g., purse snatching, assaults/muggings). Crimes of passion committed among relatives or friends and other crimes committed indoors, such as shoplifting, are crimes for which law enforcement agencies' typically have little to no control over any increases and decreases in frequency. Police agencies collect information about these crimes and make arrests, as an order maintenance measure, whenever possible.

The rate at which citizens report crime varies from community to community. We strive to be responsive to our citizens' reports of criminal activity – the public's confidence in our ability to effectively respond to specific events is crucial if we, as a community, want to formulate an effective community-wide strategy to resist increases in the frequency with which crimes occur. Therefore, increases in the frequency of crimes reported may be viewed favorably provided that we, as a community, use the statistics to identify our specific problems and formulate reasonable short and long-term responses.

In addition to arresting suspects after a crime has been committed, crime prevention and deterrence activities are methods by which Law Enforcement agencies and the citizens of the community can collaboratively resist increases in the volume of crimes.

All offenses are classified on the basis of law-enforcement officer investigation and in accordance with UCR offense definitions (which will not necessarily coincide with N.C. Statute definitions.) Because UCR identifies a Police problem, offense classifications are not based on the findings of a court, coroner, jury or decision of a prosecutor.

SCORING OF UCR OFFENSES

The method of scoring in the Uniform Crime Reporting program varies with the type of crime committed, and it is important to remember that the number of offenders does not determine the number of offenses.

For murder and non-negligent manslaughter, rape, and aggravated assaults, one offense is scored for each victim regardless of the number of offenders involved. For example, three offenders could be involved in the murder of one victim, and in this case one murder would be scored.

For robbery and larceny, one offense is counted for each distinct operation - that is, separate in time and place. The number of victims in any one operation does not determine the number of offenses. For example, if ten (10) people are robbed in a bar at the same time, only one offense is counted. However, if that robber then leaves the bar and holds up a passerby, a second offense has occurred and would be scored.

For burglary, one offense is counted for each "structure" which is illegally entered. For UCR purposes, a structure is generally defined as an enclosed, permanently occupied area. The illegal entries for the purpose of committing a felony or theft of such structures as dwelling houses, garages, offices, barns and the like are considered burglaries, and one burglary is scored for each separate unit entered. The illegal entry of several structures used to hold transients, such as hotel rooms, is scored as one burglary if there was one distinct criminal operation, regardless of the number of rooms or structures that have been entered. For motor vehicle theft, one offense is counted for each theft or attempted theft of a motor vehicle. For UCR purposes, a motor vehicle is defined as any self-propelled vehicle that runs on the surface and not on rails or a body of water. Thefts of farm and construction equipment are excluded from this definition and are scored as larcenies. All cases where persons not having lawful access take automobiles are classified as motor vehicle theft, even though the vehicles may later be found abandoned. This includes "joyriding." One offense is scored for each vehicle stolen or for each attempt to steal a motor vehicle.

Attempts to commit any of the above offenses are counted with the exception of attempts or assaults to kill, which are classified and scored under aggravated assaults.

For multiple offenses that occur in one incident (at the same "time and place"), only the most serious offense is counted.

Part I crimes are ranked according to UCR's definition of seriousness, and appear in order from the most serious to least serious. For example, a robber may seize a man's wallet and then beat him causing serious injury. Both a robbery and an aggravated assault have occurred, but because robbery is considered by UCR to be more serious, only the robbery is scored. From one perspective this method of counting seriously understates the crime problem, but from another, it prevents undue inflation of crime statistics.
